NOYEN is a trusted source of comprehensive solutions in industrial parts cleaning. We develop machines for cleaning and degreasing parts in production processes. We design and implement innovations for automation and integration of industrial lines. We also produce effective and safe cleaning and degreasing agents for industrial applications, surface preparation before painting, corrosion protection, passivation, phosphating and corrosion removal.

We provide professional support and assistance in managing the cleaning process. Laboratory tests carried out by our experts help to implement and optimise cleaning processes and achieve an above-average quality of technical cleanliness. We also provide customised industrial cleaning, degreasing and pickling services, including cleaning services to VDA 19 and ISO 16232 standards of technical cleanliness.

We have a machine park and offer machining services, cutting or bending metal sheets with modern CNC machines.

Thanks to our knowledge and more than 20 years of experience, we are changing the way of thinking about cleaning. We implement modern solutions that respond to the needs of our clients and the market.
